Deliverable 1

Initially, our group was having trouble getting the project to build in Eclipse. We finally got it to build on one of our computers, and we were able to run a few of the test suites provided. A good number of tests pass, a handful will fail, and some tests will be skipped when running all tests. There is still some confusion on what we are testing exactly. We haven't gone into depth with the test cases, and further evaluation is still needed.
